

Photos: Spring Clean-up for Bonsal Wildlife Preserve

Spring Clean-up

1 of 12

Volunteers at the Riverview Drive entrance during the 19th Annual Clean Up of The Alonzo F. Bonsal Wildlife Preserve in the First Ward, on Saturday, April 13th

Bryan Garnham returns with fresh bags for the 19th Annual Clean Up of The Alonzo F. Bonsal Wildlife Preserve in the First Ward, on Saturday, April 13th

At the trailhead, Bryan Garnham sprays out racist and other objectionable graffiti during the 19th Annual Clean Up of The Alonzo F. Bonsal Wildlife Preserve in the First Ward, on Saturday, April 13th

A trio of trout swim around the waters of the Third River by the footbridge during the 19th Annual Clean Up of The Alonzo F. Bonsal Wildlife Preserve in the First Ward, on Saturday, April 13th

From the footbridge, Kathlin Grupper and Deb DeSalvo track the trout swimming in the Third River, during the 19th Annual Clean Up of The Alonzo F. Bonsal Wildlife Preserve in the First Ward, on Saturday, April 13th

Dad Lionel, far left, Kyle and Colette Lauture haul out trash from the waters and shores of the Third River at the 19th Annual Clean Up of The Alonzo F. Bonsal Wildlife Preserve in the First Ward, on Saturday, April 13th

Lionel Lauture jumps right into the Third River to pull litter tangled in the foliage at the 19th Annual Clean Up of The Alonzo F. Bonsal Wildlife Preserve in the First Ward, on Saturday, April 13th

The Shepen, Worlidge and Weiss families return with the bags of litter they've filled at the 19th Annual Clean Up of The Alonzo F. Bonsal Wildlife Preserve in the First Ward, on Saturday, April 13th

Gerry Sullivan scours the Third River's edge for litter at the 19th Annual Clean Up of The Alonzo F. Bonsal Wildlife Preserve in the First Ward, on Saturday, April 13th

Mark Porter cleans the edge of a path of litter at the 19th Annual Clean Up of The Alonzo F. Bonsal Wildlife Preserve in the First Ward, on Saturday, April 13th

MKA students Julia Elmore and Molly Demara document the the 19th Annual Clean Up of The Alonzo F. Bonsal Wildlife Preserve in the First Ward, on Saturday, April 13th

Volunteers at the Riverview Drive entrance during the 19th Annual Clean Up of The Alonzo F. Bonsal Wildlife Preserve in the First Ward, on Saturday, April 13th

